The keymacro.dll allows you to change the properties of shortcuts in any location by the keyboard. The program has two modes: In the first, you can specify the number of shortcuts, their location and the behavior of each shortcut key. In the second mode, you can choose which keys are assigned to which shortcut. The installation includes a shortcut icon, a printer, and an internet web site, for easy use. Keymacro allows you to create any number of shortcut keys, specify their location, assign each of them a different behavior, and specify the order in which you want them to be called. Keymacro also allows you to easily create a web site to present all the shortcut keys you've created in a particular folder. You can create a printer-friendly version of your shortcuts, and they can also be directly integrated into your existing system using the "Auto-Add-to-System" function. Keymacro also offers a free web site with the shortcuts you create. Keymacro is compatible with all versions of Windows, from Windows 95 to Windows 7, from Windows 2000 to Windows 8, from Windows XP to Windows Vista, and from Windows 8 to Windows 10. Keymacro is distributed as a compressed ZIP file of 1.55MB. Who wants to make their own shortcuts? Users who want to make their own shortcuts with the program Keymacro. No time limit. System Requirements: - CPU (GHz) and RAM 6. Weather.COBBNZ.COM Weather Gadget. Free Weather.COBBNZ.COM Weather Gadget is a desktop gadget that shows the weather forecast in Christchurch, New Zealand, which is issued by the Fendalton Weather Service (weather.cobbnz.com). This includes the temperature, barometric pressure, rainfall, and humidity. It integrates basic options that can be easily figured out. Simple UI for viewing weather details After the one-click setup, Weather.COBBNZ.COM Weather Gadget displays a small frame on the screen, which shows the weather conditions, such as temperature (Celsius), humidity (%), barometric pressure (hPa), rainfall (mm), and speed (km/h). Clicking on the geographical location extends the pane to reveal additional information, such as the minimum and maximum values, the current day's, year's and all-time values, along with evolution graphs when it comes to the temperature and barometric pressure. Moreover, you can view a seven-day rainfall forecast, the sunshine duration, and UV index. If you click on the date and time, this will launch the weather provider in your default web browser to find out more details. Thanks to the options shared among most desktop gadgets specifically designed for Windows 7 and Vista, it's also possible to make the frame stay on top of other windows, as well as change its opacity level. Evaluation and conclusion There were no stability issues in our tests, thanks to the fact that the widget didn't trigger the operating system to hang, crash or prompt error messages. As we expected, it had minimal impact on the computer's performance, running on a low amount of CPU and RAM. Thanks to its intuitive UI and options, Weather.COBBNZ.COM

Requirements: File Size: 1.91 MB System Requirements: Windows 7 / Vista Source: Download Date Added: February 04, 2012 Price: FreeA Republican congressional candidate from Texas is calling on a woman in her GOP primary who got herself and her family into trouble by appearing on a conspiracy website to resign and apologize. Amanda Litman has been the GOP nominee for the 22nd District seat, but the district has become more competitive in the last two weeks, with newly-elected Rep. Will Hurd losing in the race against Democrat Gina Ortiz Jones. Litman is facing two primary challengers, one of whom has criticized Litman for her appearance on Infowars.com, a conspiracy site popular among the alt-right. "Regardless of your political leanings, everyone should be outraged at her appearance on the Infowars show," Jordan Kaufman told FoxNews.com. "We can all agree that our government should not be in the business of punishing families for things their loved ones did." Kaufman is a former Marine and active duty police officer, who said he filed the complaint against Litman because "she has gotten herself and her family in trouble and she has had to answer for it." "I want to see her resign," he said. "She won't listen to reason, but at least she can do the right thing." Litman has made her political career the center of her campaign, and has said repeatedly that she's unafraid to speak her mind. She has also called Infowars, which was founded by Alex Jones, a media outlet with an "un-American agenda." In early September, Litman appeared on the site and was asked about her husband's involvement in an armed robbery, and about the accusations she's made against her high school boyfriend, which resulted in him being arrested and facing a felony charge. After the interview, Litman issued an apology on Facebook: "I am deeply sorry to the first responders, the attorneys, and all who have supported me," she wrote. "These accusations were unfounded and have caused many problems in my life. I am sorry." FoxNews.com tried to contact Litman several times for comment, but did not hear back. A spokesman for Litman's campaign told FoxNews.com that "she does not want to speak to us at this time." The spokesman said the campaign was investigating the charges against Litman's husband. "He has been cleared of the charges and did not receive any punishments. This was fully investigated by the Lakeway Police Department." Litman's son appeared on the conspiracy
